

Info Breakfast 20180327

Good News:

Yahaya Sani, Mehran Naseri and Reza Heydarzade have all arrived.

Rolf Larsson is among the authors of a Debate Article at Dagens Nyheter about climate change adaptation. The article will be published March, 30/2018.

Caroline Fredriksson and Hans Hanson are presenting a seminar in Malmö on April, 9 for a network of coastal municipalities in Southern Sweden. These municipalities are developing a common strategy for coastal issues related to climate change. Link

Rolf would like to start a book circle at TVRL. He will work a bit more on the idea and return to us.

To new comers and international staff:

Welcome day 30th of May 2018

If you are new at LU, please come to our Welcome day for English speaking staff on the 30th of May! It's not an entire day, to be honest, it's between 8.30 and lunch (included. Very nice. Really.).

We're at Skissernas Museum – Museum for Artistic Process and Public Art.

Read more and register at "Kompetensportalen, which is a professional development portal that contains details of all internal courses coordinated by Human Resources. Log in with your Lucat ID: <https://cas.lu.se/cas/login?locale=en>

More on onboarding: All new international staff at Lund University are welcome to International Citizen Hub in Lund on the 4 June 2018 at 13.00 (sharp): "To work and live in Sweden"

The Hub supports international employees and their families by providing information and arranging relevant activities such as meetings with the authorities and schools, organising job-seeking programmes for spouses and helping out with the initial social networking. Any question you might have as a new citizen in Sweden – they have (or can find) the answer to.

Register for this welcoming event, hosted only for you, by an e-mail to lich@lund.se or visiting the Hub at the mini-fair during our Welcome Day.

Collaborators needed:

Miklas is applying to H2020 grant initiative "Integrated Constructed Wetland management framework (ICW)" and is looking for interested partners within TVRL, as well as international contacts.

Financing opportunities:

Åke och Greta Lissheds Foundation have an open call for support short trips (conferences or such). Deadline 10 April. <http://www.lissheds-stiftelse.a.se/Ansokan.aspx>

Other:

E22 will be closed April 5 – 22. Much traffic problems expected in Lund during this period.
